TAFT WILL TAKE WILSON'S PLACE

President Wilson will not Attend Battle Anniversary Celebration. Ex-President Taft will be the Presiding Officer.

President Woodrow Wilson will not come to Gettysburg to participate in the exercises attending the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle. Ex-President William Howard Taft will be here and will take the place of Mr. Wilson in acting as presiding officer and delivering the address on the concluding day of the celebration, July 4. This announcement is given out as official and is not likely to be changed.

In declining to attend the coming anniversary Mr. Wilson is following out the rule which he established some time ago when he said that during the first year of his term he would accept no invitations to attend public celebrations or jubilees. Adhering to this determination Mr. Wilson declined to attend the Perry celebration at Lake Erie.

He will spend the latter part of June and the first week in July at his summer home at Cornish, New Hampshire, and has announced definitely that he will not come to Gettysburg.

More or less doubt has been felt for some weeks over Mr. Wilson's coming here at the time of the anniversary but the general opinion was that he would finally come. The invitation to attend was not sent to him until rather recently, though it is not believed that this feature had anything to do with his declination.

Mr. Taft's visit to Gettysburg will not be the first time he has been here in an official capacity. He attended the dedication of the Regulars' monument during his presidency, made an address and reviewed the troops present here on that occasion.

That Fireworks Display.

Further details of the fireworks display on the night of July 3d have been received.

There will be burned on the very top of Little Round Top, a glorious American flag 200 feet wide and 120 feet high, while half way down the veterans will see in lines of fire the huge figures of a Union and Confederate veteran, clasping hands with the dove of peace outlined in golden fire above their heads. This mammoth display of pyrotechnics is to cost $10,000.

The work of constructing and manufacturing is already well under way with no less than 100 pyrotechnists on the job. It will require a train of 10 special cars to carry the fireworks and equipment to Gettysburg. There are nearly 100,000 square feet of lance and frame work used for set pieces, 4000 shells ranging from 3 inches to 30 inches in diameter. There will be one complete carload of rockets and two tons of red, white and blue fire.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the entire display—the one that will bring the thrill of the days of '61 to the veterans who have been spared for this great reunion—will be the exact reproduction of the signal code of the Union Army—sixteen set pieces in red, white and blue fire. Radiant in gorgeous fire will also burn the corps badges of the Army of the Potomac and that of the Confederate forces identified with the Gettysburg battle.

One of the conspicuous novelties of the display will be a releasing of an American flag from a great special balloon shell, after which the flag will float over the heads of the assembled veterans of the two armies.

Oiling Pike

The State highway department began oiling the Chambersburg and Gettysburg turnpike on Monday between Newman's, above Caledonia and Chambersburg. Superintendent M. K. Burgner is in charge of the work.

The turnpike has already been oiled from Gettysburg to Newman's. The work on the other side of the mountain is in charge of R. M. Renfrew who has a force of men distributing the oil. His contract calls for the oiling a strip sixteen feet wide from the end of the oiled district to Chambersburg.

The oil for this purpose has been shipped to Fayetteville and is taken from there in large tanks. It is expected that the oilers will be near Chambersburg by the end of this week. It will require several carloads of oil.

WANTS TO SEE GIRLS WHO SANG

Veteran Asks about Young Ladies of Gettysburg who Sang Patriotic Songs of Welcome when Buford's Cavalry Arrived in Town.

We are in receipt of the following letter which will recall a pleasant incident to many of the older residents of town:

Wallis Run, June 16
Editor Gettysburg Times:
Please ask through your paper where the school girls are now who stood on the sidewalks in 1863 and sang patriotic songs to the Union soldiers as they marched through the town. Will any of them be on the pavements in July 1913 when the old veterans march through the town?

Yours truly,
M. H. Lowe, Co. G, 8th Pa. Cav.
Co. M, 16th Pa. Cav.

Many residents of the town recall that when Buford's Cavalry rode in to Gettysburg before the battle a party of young women, stationed at the Chambersburg, Middle, High and Breckenridge corners of South Washington street, sang patriotic songs as they rode by. The entire community had heard frequently of threatened raids, the Confederate cavalry had been in the town the day before, and all were over-joyed to see the Union troops here. At the time of the fortieth anniversary of the battle some of the ladies who sang in 1863 repeated these songs again for the benefit of the old soldiers present.

Among those now living who were in the party at the time of the battle are the following, Mrs. S. M. Stewart, of Baltimore street; Miss Susie Myers, Williamsport, Pa.; Mrs. William Tawney, of Steinwehr avenue; Miss Lillie McClean, of East Middle street; Mrs. Anna Kitzmiller, of Baltimore street; Mrs. James Weaver, of West Middle street; Mrs. William Sheads, East Middle street; Miss Carrie Young, East Middle street; Miss Dora Flemming, of Kansas; and Mrs. William Rupp, of Stevens street.

A GLOOMY VIEW

Hagerstown Sees Stranded Tourists and Many Accidents.

"The nearer the big time comes the more evident it becomes that there is going to be dreadful confusion and a woeful lack of accommodations.

"One railroad man told a reporter that according to his judgment there would be whole train loads of people who would never get within miles of Gettysburg. In the big cities no excursion tickets will be sold, nothing except the regular round trip ticket. The railroads are going to do their level best but they are scared and do not hesitate to show it.

"One expert, who has been figuring estimates that 30,000 automobiles with parties in them will try to enter Gettysburg that week. Just figure that up a bit, 30,000 on an average of four to a car will make 120,000 people, to try to be exact as possible count it 100,000. Accidents are more than liable to happen to a considerable portion of those machines and injuries to many of those people."

OLD NOTE

Bill of United Colonies Printed in Philadelphia in 1776.

Isaac Savage, of Bishop, Md., who is spending the summer at Pen-Mar Park, has in his possession an old six-dollar Colony note. On one side is a circle in which are two trees and a pyramid of rocks and the word, "Perseverando", while, on the same side are these words: "The United Colonies—Six Dollars." This bill entitles the bearer to receive Six Spanish Milled Dollars, or the value thereof in Gold or Silver, according to a resolution of Congress, passed at Philadelphia, February 17, 1776, and bore the signature of Ben. Jacobs and Gov. Whelan, which were written in ink and are very legible. Also the words: "Six Dollars," while across each end and the sides of the note were the words: "Continental Currency." On the reverse side were the words: "Six Dollars; Philadelphia; printed by Hall & Sellers, 1776."

The note is nearly square and, notwithstanding its age, is in fair condition.

ARE INSPECTING TOWN BUILDINGS

State Officials Want to Make Sure that Gettysburg's Structures are Safe. York City Denies Use of Fire Engine. Plugs are Numbered.

In view of the large attendance of people expected at Gettysburg in July, the commissioner of labor and industry has on the ground here a committee of inspectors who are making a thorough investigation of the conditions here.

This includes the hotels, college and seminary buildings and other structures to be used in housing the tens of thousands of visitors who will visit Gettysburg to take part in the celebration. The committee has been instructed to make an investigation which will enable danger from accidents of fire to be reduced to a minimum.

The committee consists of James A. Steese, of the department; J. P. Quinn, deputy inspector of the York Adams district, and E. K. Saylor, inspector of the Lancaster district. William S. Essick, of Harrisburg, is inspecting means for accident prevention, scientific fire escapes and other modern safety appliances for the prevention of accidents, at the invitation of the commissioner.

The fire plugs here have all been numbered and the cards indicating the locations of all the plugs will be distributed to citizens during the next day or two.

The fire committee of York city council has decided that the request for the services of one of the chemical engines of the York department and a crew during the battle celebration here cannot be complied with. It is now probable that arrangements will be made to send the Reliance motor chemical engine of West York and have the Royal company answer calls in that borough during its absence. The state offered to pay for transportation and maintenance of six men, the apparatus and horses, and also to pay the firemen $3 a day.

Colonel Lewis E. Beiter announced Monday night that the state of Pennsylvania will transport to Gettysburg at the expense of the state 22,051 veterans who participated in the Civil War and who are now residents of Pennsylvania or who enlisted from Pennsylvania and are now living in other states. This also includes all Confederate veterans now living in the state who have accepted the invitation of the Pennsylvania commission.

THE "SELF-INTEREST LEAGUE" OF AMERICA.

The most natural, the most human, if not the most altruistic, bond is that of self-interest.

There are thousands of associations, leagues, and societies all over the country that bear witness to the uniting force of a common, personal cause.

The biggest society in the country is one that has no president, no by-laws, nor, in fact, any specified organization. Yet practically every man and woman belongs to it.

It is the Society of Newspaper Readers. Their only bond is that of self-interest.

All men and women know that in order to be able to hold their own with their neighbors they must learn what the newspapers have to tell them, not only in regard to general events of the day, but also in regard to the specific activities of the locality in which they live.

The advertisements in the reliable newspapers are no less important and are very apt to be of more lasting value in this matter of self-interest.

Being a member of the league means that you are up-and-doing, progressive, and alive to your own welfare.

PRaise KAISER AS PEACEMAKER

Americans, Headed by Carnegie, Congratulate Him.

25 YEARS AS EMPEROR

Delegations Call on German Ruler and Present Illuminated Addresses and Costly Gifts.

Berlin, June 17.—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the accession of Emperor William to the imperial throne was celebrated throughout the German empire as a general holiday.

The commemoration which had been deferred from its actual date out of respect to the memory of the emperor's father, Frederick, coincides with the forty-second anniversary of the triumphal return of his grandfather at the head of his victorious army after the Franco-Prussian war and was naturally marked by considerable military display.

The Americans presented to the emperor an address signed by a large number of their countrymen. The address was in part as follows:

"To His Imperial Majesty the German Emperor.—On behalf of organizations and societies which represent the effort of American citizens of every section, creed and race to advance the cause of civilization, we venture to express to your imperial majesty our congratulations upon a reign notable in countless ways, in none more so than in the maintenance of twenty-five years of unbroken peace between Germany and the other nations of the world.

"The memorable words of your majesty shortly after ascending the throne, 'The peace of my country is sacred to me,' came both from the head and from the heart. Sacred, indeed, is the peace, the order and the prosperity of the German people have been. More than once during the past twenty-five years it has been the high privilege of your majesty not only to exercise peaceful forbearance, but to inspire it in others.

"We beg to tender our thanks to your imperial majesty for what you have done to prevent war and to advance the coming of the day when there shall be peace upon earth to men of good will.

"In addition to the preservation of international peace we know that every department of government has received and is receiving your sympathetic co-operation. The remarkable developments in the commerce and the manufacturing industries of Germany and the improvement of agriculture owe much to your majesty's judicious and unwearied efforts.

"Those of us engaged in the development of the industries, the commerce, the education, the science and arts of your country, and in promoting as far as lies in your power the brotherhood of man, unite in expressing to your majesty our sense of obligation for the example your reign of twenty-five years has set.

"We congratulate your majesty upon the notable advance made by Germany in every field of human effort during your peaceful, prosperous and civilizing reign. Long may it continue unbroken."

The day began with a "general reveille." The massed military bands from the division of the guards summoned the emperor to his window with deafening music played in the inner court yard of the castle. Then bandsmen then paraded Unter den Linden and back playing popular melodies and military marches. In the meantime 700 school children had replaced the bandsmen in the castle court yard, where they sang several songs to the evident pleasure of the emperor.

To a delegation of Englishmen received by his majesty the emperor said, "I can assure you I shall continue to do my best to preserve peace and promote the friendly relationships existing between our two countries."

The array of deputations seemed almost endless. The delegates represented organizations of every kind and all brought with them illuminated addresses and handsome gifts.

WILSON MAY READ MONEY MESSAGE

He Will Take It to Congress This Week.

Washington, June 17.—President Wilson probably will read his currency message personally to both branches of congress assembled in the hall of the house, as he did his tariff message.

He finished writing the message yesterday. It is 1200 words long and urges immediate revision of the banking and currency laws.

The president expects the currency bill to be launched in both houses of congress some time this week. It represents the administration's views and according to Mr. Wilson himself will be "no man's bill," but the results of common counsel among currency advocates whose suggestions were condensed and formulated by Secretary McAdoo, of the treasury department; Chairman Owen and Glass, of the senate and house banking and currency committees, respectively, with the advice and assistance of the president.

At the regular semi-weekly conference with the Washington correspondents the president was asked for an explanation of some of the principles of currency reform, but said that inasmuch as the bill and his own message would be made public within a week, he would refrain from comment at this time. The president was undecided as to whether his message would be presented to congress in advance of the currency bill or whether both would be made public about the same time. The impression prevailed, however, that the bill will be introduced in both houses by tomorrow or Thursday of this week, and that the president will pronounce his views to congress about June 23.

READING'S SHOPMEN STRIKE

Pottsville, Pa., June 17.—Several hundred Philadelphia & Reading railway car shop hands went out on a strike at Schuylkill Haven, St. Clair and Palo Alto. The strikers say they expect to have all of the shopmen join their ranks.

At Schuylkill Haven a meeting was held on Sunday afternoon, and it was decided to strike in sympathy with the Newberry, Rutherford and Reading men. A hundred and seventy-five failed to report for work.

At Palo Alto about 25 per cent of the 250 men employed there failed to report, and at St. Clair, where the men are engaged in outside repair work, about fifteen or twenty out of sixty men failed to report. The men who quit are employed in various capacities.

The following official statement was made by the Philadelphia & Reading Railway company in Philadelphia:

"Four shopmen of Rutherford were recently dismissed for cause. Following that a number of men failed to report for duty and a sympathy strike has spread to other shops of the company. No question of wages, hours of service or working conditions have been raised at any point, the only question at issue being one of discipline. Less than 30 per cent of the men employed obeyed the call to strike and the business of the company is proceeding without delay or inconvenience."

STRIKE RENEWED IN W. VA. DISTRICT

GIRLS TELL OF OUTRAGES

Charleston, W. Va., June 17.—Reports of war from mining camps in the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek district came to Charleston, where the senate mine investigating committee was in session.

Only the most meager information was available in Charleston, but reports from the hills were that the Cabin Creek miners, in part at least, had renewed the strike, and that the Paint Creek workers were considering quitting work again.

It was definitely established that three miners meetings were held in the district on Sunday. Two on Cabin Creek were reported to have voted not to return to work. It was stated that the men who had failed to go into the mines were few in number, and that the disturbance was not serious.

One meeting was held on Paint Creek and it was reported that no definite action was taken. A report of the Paint Creek operators declared that 80 per cent of their men were at work.

It was generally accepted that no serious outbreak occurred, but there was considerable anxiety over the effect that the renewal of trouble in these regions might have on the New River district a few miles away, where 15,000 men have been considering a strike order.

Elizabeth Fish, a nineteen-year-old girl, described how a party of mine guards had forced her and another girl to wade Cabin creek at the point of guns, meantime taunting them with obscene remarks.

A. H. Honaker, a merchant at Holly Grove, said he was arrested by fifteen mine guards and taken from his house. He had allowed miners to erect tents on his property, he said, after they had been evicted from the company's houses. Guards, he declared, had dumped the furniture of forty or fifty miners on his property, and he had allowed them to remain.

"If you'll take the guards out of there," said C. L. Workman, a stable boss, "the men and the operators would be able to get together."

Mr. Workman said the guards were still at work on Cabin Creek.

C. R. Shaw, of Parkersburg, said he was taken into the coal fields during the strike with his wife and children. He said he worked at Mucklow for four weeks, and that he received no pay. "It was all used up in the company store," he said, "and the store said I owed the company money."

Thomas L. Feltz, who said he was vice president and general manager of the Baldwin Feltz Detective agency of Virginia, which supplied the mine guards, declared that his agency had never owned a machine gun, but his men on Cabin Creek had used machine guns owned by the company.

Under examination by Senator Martine, Mr. Feltz said that he had endeavored in vain to find the origin of a story to the effect that a "human hyena among the mine guards had mutilated a woman's breast."

"I offered a reward of $500 for any information on this story," said Mr. Feltz, "but was unable to find out even where the story began."

CIVIL RIGHTS ACT INVALID

Washington, June 17.—The "Civil Rights Act" of 1875, held unconstitutional as to the states many years ago in a series of famous decisions, was declared by the supreme court likewise null and void as to the territories, the District of Columbia, the navigable waters of the United States and the sea.

The point was decided in the case of Mary P. Butts, a negro, of Everett, Mass., who sued the Miners Transportation company for damages, under the law, because she was required to eat at a second table and use soiled linen on a trip from Boston to Norfolk, although she held a first class ticket.

RATE DECISIONS ARE ANNOUNCED

Two Cent Law Held Invalid to Some Roads.

SUSTAINED AS TO OTHERS

Washington, June 17.—Validity of two-cent passenger laws and maximum freight rates in Missouri, West Virginia and Arkansas were upheld by the supreme court in another series of decisions in the noted state rate cases.

No decision was announced in the Kentucky case. In the Missouri case the great majority of rates contested by the railroads as confiscatory were held valid. State freight rates established in Oregon also were approved.

All contentions that the state laws attacked interfered with interstate commerce were swept aside, following the precedent in the Minnesota rate decision a week ago.

In the majority of the Missouri cases and in the Arkansas case, the court held that railroads had presented too general data on which to base a claim that their property was being taken without compensation through the operation of the new rates.

The Missouri cases were the first taken up, and the court held that the rates prescribed under the state law to be confiscatory on the St. Louis & Hannibal, Kansas City, Clinton & Springfield, and Chicago Great West ern railroads, but valid as to the St. Louis Southwestern, the Missouri Pacific, the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern, the Wabash, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Chicago & Alton.

The court also sustained the rates of the Missouri law as to the Chicago Burlington & Quincy, the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe, the Kansas City Southern, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific (including the St. Louis, Kansas City and Colorado), and the St. Louis & San Francisco.

The decision holding the rates confiscatory and therefore unconstitutional as to the Chicago Great Western was made to apply, by virtue of a stipulation between the state and the railroads, to the Quincy, Omaha & Kansas City railroad and the St. Joseph & Grand Island railway.

The constitutionality of a state two-cent passenger law or a maximum freight law was determined in the Minnesota case, where the court held that a state had a right to pass such laws, provided the rates imposed under them were not confiscatory. This same application was made to the Missouri case. The decision is partly a victory for Missouri, as the lower court had held the rates confiscatory on all the roads.

Taking up the Burlington case first Justice Hughes pointed out that the assessment value had been multiplied by three to reach a value for rates. He declared that if that basis were extended to the whole Burlington system the value upon which rates are to be based would exceed by $115,000,000 the capitalization of the system.

He declared that the revenue basis adopted by the lower court to apportion the cost of interstate and intra state business was too general, when actual tests could be made.

In the St. Louis and Hannibal, Justice Hughes said neither the expert for the railroads or for the state could find a basis on which the rates would be remunerative.

In the West Virginia case the state two-cent passenger law was upheld as valid by the supreme court affirming the decision of the supreme court of appeals of West Virginia.

Justice Hughes said the question of interference with interstate commerce was decided in favor of the state for the reasons assigned in the Minnesota rate decision. No question of confiscation was presented in the West Virginia case.

The supreme court also upheld a valid the rates imposed by the Oregon railroad commission out of Portland thus affirming the federal court of this state.

The Arkansas maximum freight rate law and the two-cent passenger far law also were upheld as valid.

MOROS ROUTED IN LAST STAND

Six Americans Killed and Seven Wounded in Attack.

Manila, Philippines, June 17.—The rebellious Moros on Mount Bagasag were completely routed in the night by the American forces, who lost six men killed and seven wounded.

Reports of the engagement, reaching Manila by wireless from the island of Jolo, are meager. All the Americans killed were members of the several companies of scouts.

In the first advance upon the mountain last week, when the Moros were nearly dislodged from their positions, six Americans also were killed. The number of dead among the Moros is not known.

Sunday night's battle began just before dark. The fighting was fierce, but the American advance was so determined that the Moros at last stole away and left the mountain clear. They are now at large, but will be pursued ceaselessly.

Brigadier General John J. Pershing, commanding the department of Mindanao, is leading the forces and is enthusiastic in praise of the conduct of his men.

A judgment for $7000 damages for window smashing was awarded in the king's bench district against a number of leaders of militant suffragettes in favor of ninety-three West End merchants whose property suffered in the suffragette raids.

Among the defendants were Mr. and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and Mrs. Flora Drummond.

DEMOCRATS REJECT TOBACCO TAX

Excise Proposal is Unanimously Voted Down.

Washington, June 17.—A graduated tax on tobacco, as an amendment to the Underwood tariff bill, was unanimously rejected by the majority members of the senate committee, who voted down Senator Hitchcock's amendment, suggested by Attorney General McReynolds.

The committee approved placing live stock and grains on the free list, with a countervailing duty, except oats, which remain dutiable at 10 cents a bushel, and oatmeal, at 33 cents 100 pounds. Citrus fruits were unchanged.

The committee voted to take bananas from the Underwood free list and impose a duty, how much, Chairman Simmons did not announce. After six weeks of work on the tariff bill Democratic leaders of the senate have nearly completed their task and will have the revised measure ready for the party caucus some day this week.

Schedules remaining to be approved are the sundries, silk and free list, and the committee also has yet to act on the income tax and administrative sections. There are a few undecided points in connection with the metal, cotton and wool schedules to be taken up and the committee also has to determine upon a date when the provisions of the wool and sugar schedules are to be made effective.

OIL RATE LAW INVALID

Supreme Court Rules Out Kansas Law as Unconstitutional.

Washington, June 17.—Because of a provision in the law arbitrarily fixing $500 damages for each violation, the United States supreme court annulled as unconstitutional the Kansas statute of 1905, which fixed the maximum rates for transportation of oil by rail.

The objectionable clause was held to prevent the railroads from testing whether the rates were confiscatory.

Of all the wanton and apparently useless losses on the average farm, that growing out of a loss of the young things at or shortly after their birth—the direct result of failure to give the dams proper care in housing and rations—seems to have the least to excuse it. Sometimes such losses are the result of a lack of good sense; of

THE HORSEMAN.

A horse that is kicked and cut and is always dodging. It is apt to be difficult to manage and hard to catch in the pasture.
It is reported that great numbers of horses in Europe have been successfully vaccinated against glanders.
A horse that is overworked or poorly nourished is more susceptible to disease than one well fed and well cared for.
The colts and idle horses should spend most of each pleasant day in the paddock.
At weaning time colts should be taken away entirely out of sight of the mothers.
There is nothing that produces stiffness, inflammation and unsoundness faster than standing in a stall day after day.
The improvement of the quality of the grade horse in the country has been made by farmers who are willing to pay a reasonable price for the services of a high class stallion.

FAVORS YOUNG SOWS.

Experienced Hog Raiser Believes Glts Raise Best Litters.

The contrast between gilts and aged sows has often been dwelt upon, writes G. P. Williams in the Ohio Farmer. The man who has a bunch of gilts is too often like the boy beginning grammar—his suspicions and prejudices are thoroughly aroused, and he does not expect much luck with the young sows. We have tried both young and old and all ages between. Our ideas have changed from time to time. There are reasons for contending in favor of both young and old sows.

When young sows are to be wintered with the old ones then get ready for the realization of your fears. Glts will be driven from the trough, from the corn and from the nest by old sows. They will be thoroughly cowed so as to be peevish and ill nourished.

Glts should be fed differently from old sows. They cannot stand heavy feeding and do well. They need growth instead of fat. They need exercise. They do not want a 500 pound sow climbing on top of them in the nest at night.

Five years ago we had spring litters from gilts only, wintered together with no old sows. We had better averages at farrowing time than ever since. This spring we have all gilts wintered together, as before, fed with moderation and a food designed for growth, by far more quiet and careful than the bunch we said goodbye to last spring. They have as nice and even a lot of piglets as one would care to see—averages good, no runts, no half dozen extra pigs to be laid upon and no bad habits, barking and climbing over gates or creating disturbances.

We have found no age better for raising pigs than gilts bred at one year of age and farrowing when weighing 200 pounds or even less. The next two or three litters are possibly as good. After that the pork barrel is a better place for most old sows than is the farrowing pen.

The patch of garden that is not to be planted until early in June would better be left until nearly that time before being plowed for the reason that myriads of surface weeds that have been germinated will be killed by the late plowing, while the ground will be a good deal mellower than it would be if plowed early and allowed to settle following heavy rains.

One city man whose case the writer noted the other day rented seven acres of land and put it into horseradish. In October when he harvested his crop he had twelve tons and 400 pounds of the root. His expenses, including rental, preparation of the soil, horseradish sets and harvest expense was $242. The crop brought him $75 per ton, or $917, leaving a net profit of $675.

Many lands do not give good results in the growing of clover and alfalfa because they need sweetening with lime. When the need of this treatment is indicated by testing with blue litmus, which is exposed to the soil for a couple of hours and turns red from a ton to a ton and a half of finely ground limestone should be applied and harrowed in, or it may be applied with manure.

TRIED TO DO TOO MUCH.

Ye Perilous Feat of Laughing and Gaping at Ye Same Time.

There was a church celebration of a rather exciting nature many years ago in Lynn, Mass. The occurrences marking the dedication of the Old Tünnel Meeting House in 1882 are recorded by an eyewitness and quoted in Obadiah Oldpath's "Linn." After the formal ceremony of dedication a feast was held.

Ye dinner was in ye greete barn of Mr. Hood. While we were at table a rooster flew to ye beam over our heads. Mr. Richardson, ye Newbury minister, in a very loud voice and stately mien proclaimed that the ye house was a noble temple! It yet was but it was ket for ye godly jewel of Linn, where-upon a most lusty crow was set up by ye old cook on ye beam, and he flapped his wings, sending ye dust down on to ye table.

Ye companie hurried apies at ye misbehaving fowle, but, not being of good aim, did not hit, and with a whirling noise it flew to ye ground as if in disgust.

Mr. Gerrish was in a merrie mood.

Not having his thots about him, he endeavored ye dangerous performance of gaping and laughing at ye same time. In doing so he set his jaws open in such a wise that it was beyond his power to bring them back again. His agone was very greete, and his joyful leache was soon turned to grievous ground.

We did our utmost to stay the anguish of Mr. Gerrish, but could make out but little till Mr. Rogers, who knoweth something of anatomy, did bid ye sufferer to sit down on ye floor and, taking his head between his legs, turning ye face upward as much as possible, gave a powerful blow and sudden press, which brought ye jaws again into working order. But Mr. Gerrish did not gape nor laugh much more, neither did he talk much for that matter.

The other day there was felled in Bushey park, Hampton court, London, an elm over 200 years old. When cut up there was found imbedded in its trunk an old fashioned street lamp, which had evidently been nailed to it and gradually covered as the tree increased in size.

THE DEACON'S TIP

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1923, by Associated Literary Press

Deacon Haskins was an active church deacon. He was a good man and a guileless man. He subscribed to and read a religious weekly, but so seldom glanced at any other sort that the trickery and wickedness of the outside world were almost a sealed book to him.

On a certain evening, however, and one to be remembered to his dying day, as the deacon was abroad with his kerosene can, he had a hunch to drop into the postoffice. It is doubtful if he had ever heard of the game of poker, and yet he felt that hunch as strongly as Senator Bailey might when holding four aces. Yes, there was a letter for him—a letter bearing the New York postmark.

It was from a market tipster. He wanted to do the deacon and several other persons a good turn by putting them next to a good thing.

The stock of the Wild Cat silver mine, then selling at 7 cents on the dollar, was to jump to 60 within a month.

It was an alluring circular. One read it through a haze of greenbacks. It made one's blood run faster and his toes to snap. The preacher would have to preach no more, and the widow could go ahead and get her fur coat and auto.

"But it's speculation," sighed Deacon Haskins as he laid aside the letter.

"Yes," sighed the wife.

"We've got $500 in the house, you know. If we invested that we would make over $2,500 in a month. That's a big profit, Martha."

"It's a whopper, and I can't see wherein it's wicked to take advantage of the chance. It almost seems as if Providence sent it to us."

The matter was debated at great length, and the conclusion arrived at was that it couldn't be very wicked to speculate in silver stocks. They weren't food or clothing, and poor people couldn't be harmed.

"But don't send your order in," cautioned the wife when the other matter had been settled. "If you do some one is going to find out about it. You just go right up to New York and see this Mr. Nipper personally. If he looks honest leave the money with him. If he don't then bring it back. I have an idea he's a church member and all right, a Christian man wanting to do another Christian man a good turn."

"That's the way I feel," replied the deacon, and two days later he was face to face with Mr. Nipper.

Mr. Nipper looked honest. He had a face as open and frank as a yearling child.

He quoted Scripture.

He was a church member and fully intended to go to heaven when he died.

He courted the fullest investigation into his life and actions since the day he was born.

Of course Deacon Haskins bought $500 worth of silver stock. He refused a cigar or a drink, but he did shake hands with great heartiness and whispered something about meeting Mr. Nipper in a better world than this.

"Martha, if that man hadn't as honest as the day is long then I can't read his name nacher," was his report on arriving home.

"But is he a church member?" she asked.

"Why, he's one of the elders in the biggest church in New York city!"

And their confidence was childlike as they sat down to wait and the profit they were to make was figured out two or three times a day. You know how such speculations end. It was a staggering blow to the deacon and his wife. They hardly spoke for days and days. The neighbors saw a great change in them, but none got at the cause of it.

The reader must now jump things along for six months. One July day as the deacon was a mile from home, looking for stray hogs, he came upon an auto that had rammed into a fence from the bursting of a tire. There was only one man in the auto, and he was held in the fence by his foot.

It was Mr. Nipper. He was taking a little spin by himself from a summer hotel several miles away. He had made some changes in his appearance, but was almost instantly recognized. Such was the bitterness called up by sight of the man that the deacon went off his head. He pried the foot loose and then flung the man to the ground and wallowed him till he begged for mercy. Then the wallower stopped to get his breath and wallowed some more. It wasn't Deacon Haskins now. It was an enraged bull seeking red.

He slammed and hit and battered and banged, and Mr. Nipper really had hard work to make him take $700 and go his way.

The deacon went home to tell his wife and put the money in the cupboard and then continued on to the parsonage. He made a clean breast of everything and then asked:

"Parson, do you think I can be forgiven?"

"Let's see," was the reply. "You put in $500?"

"Yes."

"And got out $700?"

"Yes."

"Ahem, ahem. If that $200 goes for a church bell and pew cushions I should say—say—"

"That I had a living chance?"

"Yes; that you had ninety-nine chances in a hundred."

And that was where the $200 went.

Both gooseberries and currants bear fruit on wood that is two, three, four and five years old. Neither one nor five-year-old wood bears to amount to anything. This indicates the method of pruning that should be followed—namely, cutting out wood that is more than four years old and thinning out the one-year-old shoots to three or four of the strongest each season. Those left should be cut back to a height of about two feet.

The Los Angeles water supply tunnel has lately been completed at a cost of more than $20,000,000. The system extends from the snow fed streams in the Sierra Nevada mountains across the Mohave desert, a distance of some 236 miles. The system will furnish the water needed for a city the size of London.

Until Los Angeles needs this amount of water the surplus will be utilized in irrigating 125,000 acres of orange land.

ENGLISH HENS STILL LEAD.

The twenty-third week of the international egg laying contest at the Storrs college, Connecticut, found the English White Leghorns still in the lead and maintaining it by a good margin. Mr. Barron's pen had a score of 520 and Mr. Cam's 498. Mr. Schmitz's Buff Leghorns (American) had laid 443 eggs and Mr. Cam's White Wyandottes 420. Two other pens of American White Leghorns had laid 409 and 404 eggs respectively. A further interesting feature of the contest is the showing of averages for the twenty-third week by pens of the different breeds. In this the White Leghorns stand at the head of the list, forty-three pens having an average of 24.5 eggs each, two pens Columbian Plymouth Rocks average 23 eggs each, eleven pens White Wyandottes show an average of 22.18 eggs each, eight pens S. C. Rhode Island Reds average 22 eggs, two pens Buff Wyandottes average 21.5 eggs and two pens Buff Orpingtons scored 20.5 eggs each. The lowest weekly average, eleven eggs, was made by four pens of White Orpingtons.

PRESERVING EGGS.

Extensive experiments conducted by the department of agriculture show that April and May are the best months in which to put down eggs and that the water glass solution gives the best results. A stone jar makes the best container, and this should be scalded thoroughly before the eggs are put into it. The water glass, which is a silicon compound, can be got at the drug store for from 60 cents to $1 a gallon and should be diluted in ten gallons of boiled water. Of course a smaller amount of the solution may be made up, but this one to ten ratio should be maintained. The eggs should be gathered or secured daily if possible, and only those that are clean and not cracked should be used. When the jar is full it should be covered to prevent evaporation of the solution. When taking the eggs out for use next fall and winter they should be washed in warm water. If the eggs are to be boiled a pinhole should be made in the shell to prevent breaking, as the water glass solution seals the pores in the shell.

Where Style Is Looked Out For

If you want to radiate style either at home or on your Summer vacation.

Acquaintances away from home, at the seashore, mountains, or elsewhere are pretty apt to judge your position in life, and surely your taste, by your clothes—although the judgment as to position may be unfair.

You need not necessarily be expensively dressed to be well dressed. Style as we show it, at our moderate profits, does not require lavish expenditure. The simple muslin frock may be more effective, when made as our goods are made, than the over-wrought creation in much more expensive material.

So any woman buying her clothing from us, no matter how little she may want to spend, will be stylishly dressed.

For the vacation—one of our Tailored Suits—now much reduced in price. Two or three simple morning Wash Dresses, two or three extra Waists and Wash Skirts—and one of our beautiful Voile or French Mousseline Dresses for evening—will make an outfit pretty enough—stylish enough for any resort.

An extra Coat may be needed for cool evenings—A Kimona or two for the bed room. And if these things are bought from our well assorted stock you will be WELL and stylishly dressed, and at SMALL COST.
